

our sovereignty prevents us from accepting another verdict." Peru claims IPC had no legal drilling rights in Peru.

guilla

— Anguilla's resident, Ronald said he would not with Lord Cara-Britain's United Naenvoy, "until all Brit-troops leave our island."

Home from a visit to New York, Webster said this also meant British Royal Engineers who are to improve living conditions on the tiny, breakaway island. "Are they going to have 100 Royal Engineers to take away 100 jobs from Anguillans?" he asked.

Caradon is to visit An-guilla Friday to assess the situation and confer with British Commissioner Anthony Lee who took control of Anguilla eight days ago with the help of paratroopers.

Peru Rejects

LIMA—Peru has rejected an American proposal to submit the controversy over the expropriation of the International Petroleum Company to an international court, reliable government sources said.

Meanwhile American presidential envoy John M.
Irwin met Peruvian government officials for the 14th day in an effort to solve the thorny issue, which could lead to American economic sanctions against Peru.

High-ranking Peruvian sources said "the IPC expropriation has been resolved according to our laws and our courts. The exercise of